

A Stitch in Time

Quilts from the Collection
March 3–June 13, 2010

Over 25 rarely exhibited quilts made during the 1800s
by Greenwich women

These colorful and distinctive quilts made for many different uses and occasions provide a unique window into the lives of women at a time in history when their accomplishments were rarely noted in traditional historical documents. Discover new information about the lives of those who lovingly created these beautiful and useful quilts as they passed through time and many hands.

This exhibition and related programs are generously funded by a grant from The Coby Foundation.
